CS 242 Final Project Week 2 Manual Test Plan
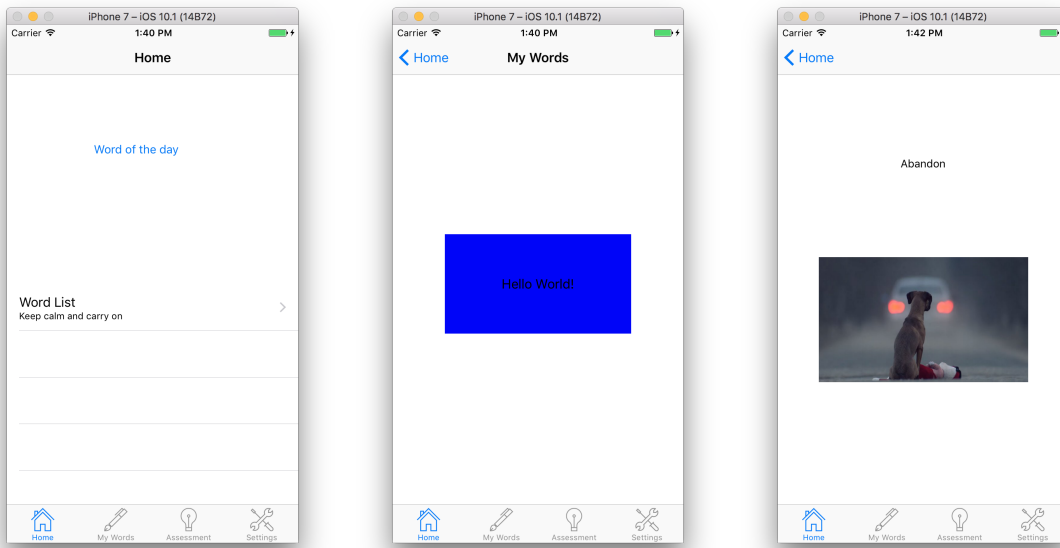

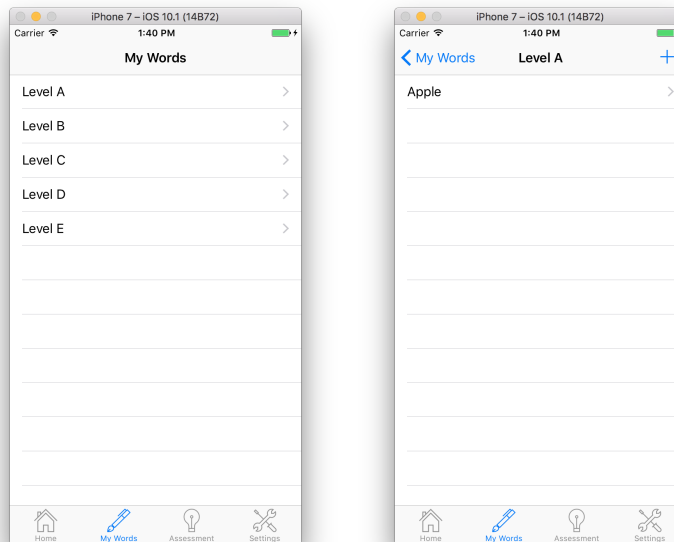

Ke Lu (kelu2)
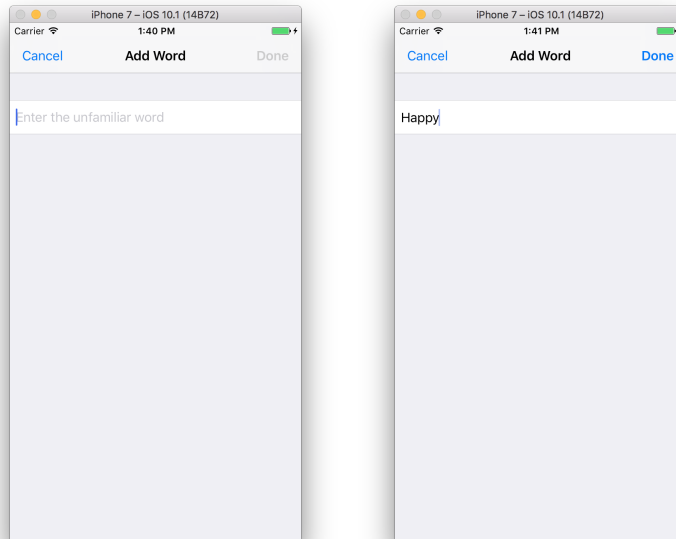

For this week, the main changes I made centered at the "My Word" part.
As we can see, the "Home" page didn't change much.

For "My Word" part, in order to make the screen concise, I changed the layout to be more simpler. After clicking on the "List A," the page switches to the list dedicated to "List A."
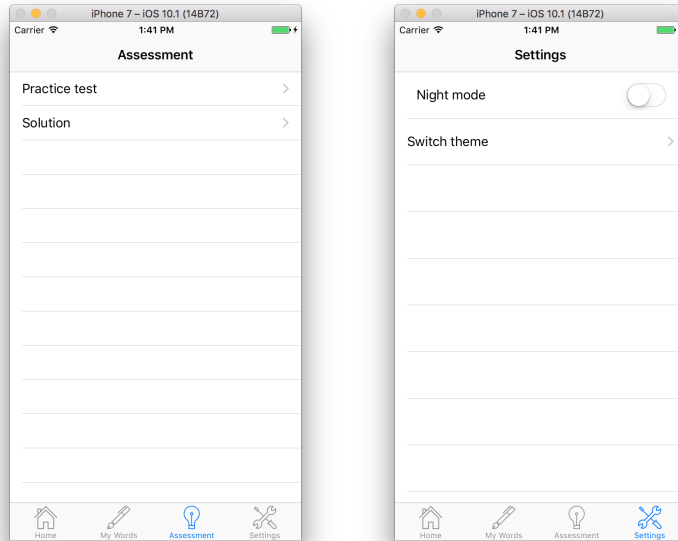

Then by clicking that "+" on the top right, an "Add Word" pop-window emerges, prompting the user to enter new word. We can also notice that before anything entered, the "Done" was inactive, but with text filled, the "Done" became active.

After adding a word, we can see it showing only in the word list in which we clicked the "+." The change also preserves even if you hide the application in the background or quit the program completely.

The last tab, "Settings" wasn't changed much but will be altered in next week.

Thank you for reading!
